No. 1/1/61-ONG.—The President has learnt with deep regret the death at 2.45 p.m. on Monday, the 2nd January, 1961, of Shri A. M. N. Ghosh, Member, Oil and Natural Gas Commission. On his passing away, India has lost an able and trusted public servant who served his country with distinction in the geological field.

Shri A. M. N. Ghosh was born on the 14th June, 1902. After taking his B.Sc. Degree in Geology from Calcutta University, he obtained his B.Sc. Degree in Geology from London University and the A.R.C.S. Diploma of the Imperial College of Science and Technology. In 1924, he joined the Geological Survey of India where he worked for over 30 years in different capacities in several parts of India.

In 1955, he was appointed as Director of the Oil and Natural Gas Division of the Geological Survey of India which was later re-designated as the Oil and Natural Gas Directorate. On the setting up of the Oil and Natural Gas Commission in August, 1956, Shri Ghosh was appointed its Member (Technical). He continued as a Member when the Commission was converted into a statutory Commission in October, 1959.

Shri Ghosh devoted his entire energies to the organisation and work of the Oil and Natural Gas Commission. In fact he laid the foundations of oil exploration in the public sector. The credit of achieving the results of the Oil and Natural Commission's work in record time goes to him.

He contributed greatly towards the establishment of oil in Cambay, Ankleshwar and Rudrasagar by the Oil and Natural Gas Commission. He had the gift of organisation and of quick and sound judgment. He will long be remembered for his meritorious service to the cause of oil geology in India.
